What did Lorde say about "Te Ao Mārama / Solar Power"? I love the warmth of summer so it was easy for me to connect with the lyrics. It talks about leaving your worries behind and moving into a positive space. That reminded me of the transition in our creation narratives of moving from darkness, te pō, into the world of light, te ao mārama.

Edit: "Unlike for her previous albums, Lorde is not releasing Solar Power on CD for environmental reasons; she has stated that she does not want to "make something that would end up in a landfill in 2 years". Instead, an eco-friendly "music box" with handwritten notes, exclusive photographs, and a download card is available for those wanting ...

Solar Power:9/10 To hear solar power for the first time is equivalent to trying to stare at an eclipse without glasses:it will make you look away at the risk of going blind. That seems to have been the general consensus. Lorde's return came with a bright warning as SP bright lead single invited us to join her on her idyllic commune.

Honestly, I wish she chose The Path as her lead single. It's still summery and playful, but it has that melancholic feel that a lot of Lorde fans identify with and is a more accurate representation of the album as a whole. It's an earworm with some layers to it whereas Solar Power (single) feels like one of her weaker songs imo.
